

Summaries and keywords

Makarenko V.P. Collapse of Empires and the Problem of Colonialism (second article)

Summary: Author makes explicit – based on the example of Russian-Chechen conflict – the mechanism of manifestation of general problems and characteristics of the empire collapse in the post-Soviet realm. The second article analyzes the heuristic potential of the colonization concept proposed by the French historian Marc Ferro. According to the author, theory and history of colonialism need to be revised in the light of new empirical and conceptual material.

Keywords: Colonialism, empire, Russian-Chechen conflict, human rights, national self-determination.

Mezhuyev V.M. Philosophy and “Public Space”

Summary: This article analyzes the relationship between philosophy as a way of self-consciousness of a free man, on the one hand, and the public space as a sphere of public life – on the other hand. The author believes that the need for philosophy arises only when the need for personal freedom is realized. In this context, the function of philosophy is to clarify the meaning and significance of human freedom and bring them to the consciousness of society members.

Keywords: philosophy, freedom, public space and civil society.

Kara-Murza A.A. How Do the Philosophical Ideas Turn into Repressive Ideology?

Summary: This article discusses the transformation of philosophical ideas into repressive ideology. This process is always a consequence of primitivization, politicization, massification, normativitition, and monologization of ideas. As suggested by the author, in the context of mass society a tendency to ideological ideas is inevitable. Therefore, the main problem is not ideologization itself of philosophical ideas but totalization of ideologies. Analyzing this problem, author clarifies the constant algorithm of degeneration of ideas into a totalizing ideology.

Keywords: philosophy, ideology, worldview, ideology totalization.

Makarenko V.P. The Problem of Cognitive Resistance

Summary: The article examines the concept of cognitive resistance as an opposition to the cognitive collaboration. The author calls into question all forms of internal and external educational, informational, and cognitive imperialism as well as takes aim at developing alternative approaches. As one of examples of such approach the Carl Schlegel's concept of history as topography is analyzed.

Keywords: cognitive resistance, cognitive imperialism, cognitive collaboration, as the history of the topography.

Dziuba I.M. Taras Shevchenko's "Kavkaz" Against the Background of Imperishable Past

Summary: The journal "Political Conceptology" publishes the book of I.M. Dziuba which is devoted to the analysis of the poem "Caucasus" written by the brilliant Ukrainian poet Taras Shevchenko. In his book, the author considers the T.G. Shevchenko's poem from the standpoint of Ukrainian attitude towards Caucasian war, independence problem, people's freedom, and liberation movement. Comparing the outlooks of Russian writers and Taras Shevchenko on the Caucasian atrocities perpetrated by Russian Empire, I.M. Dziuba bases his analysis on historical sources. In the book, the poem "The Caucasus" in original language and in Russian translation is reproduced.

Keywords: Caucasian war, national independence, liberation movement.

Tkachenko V.N. On Celebrating the 1150th Anniversary of the Birth of Russian Statehood: the Ukrainian Point of View.

Summary: The version of the world-system analysis of the origin of Rus' is realized in the article. This historical event is considered from the perspective of the other event which took place in the Russian Federation: celebration of the '1150 anniversary of the Russian statehood'.

Keywords: Rus', Rus'-Ukraine, Russian Federation, the Russian state, the world-system analysis, a mini-systems, a world-empire, the world-economy, Normanists, Antinormanists.

Ogurtsov A.P. Equifinality and Human-Dimensionality: the Experience of a Retrospective Analysis

Summary: The article deals with the various forms of analysis of science that existed in Soviet philosophy as well as the basic concepts of a systems approach to the science that was developed by M.K. Petrov.

Keywords: analysis of science, equifinality, human-dimensionality.

Kulikov D.K. Sapir-Whorf Hypothesis and its Methodological Evaluation in M.K. Petrov's Treatises

Summary: The article is devoted to the analysis and methodological evaluation of Sapir-Whorf Hypothesis as these have been made in treatises of famous Rostov philosopher M.K. Petrov. It is shown that Petrov's reference to this subject is not an episodic component of his cognitive and linguistic consideration but creates the central element of theoretical construction. The article shows that Petrov's critique is concentrated around the evaluation of Sapir-Whorf Hypothesis as a paradigmatic scientific phenomenon and one of the theoretical forms of European cultural self-consciousness. The methodological significance of a dichotomy, introduced by Petrov, between specific and general theory of linguistic relativity is also analyzed.

Keywords: linguistic relativity, sign systems, thesaurus.

Neretina S.S. Whether Counterrevolutionaries Have Been Revolutionaries?

Summary: The article is devoted to analysis and evaluation of the book: Makarenko V.P. Scientific and technical counter-revolution: ideas of M.K. Petrova as a source of thought. - Rostov-on-Don, 2011.

Keywords: philosophy, pure thought, self-determination, mentality.

Porus V.N. Point of Non-Return, or “Textbook-Terminal”?

Summary: This article provides an assessment of the book: Makarenko V.P. Scientific and technical counter-revolution: ideas of M.K. Petrova as a source of thought. - Rostov-on-Don: RostIzdat, 2011.

Keywords: collapse of the culture, point of non-return, purity of eye.

Oleinik A.N. Right of Cognitive Resistance and its Implementation

Summary: The article is devoted to analysis and evaluation of the book: Makarenko V.P. Scientific and technical counter-revolution: ideas of M.K. Petrova as a source of thought. - Rostov-on-Don, 2011.

Keywords: scientific discourse, science and government, freedom of thought and speech, cognitive resistance.

Lugvin S.B. Rethinking the “Resolved Issues”

Summary: This article provides an assessment of the book: Makarenko V.P. Scientific and technical counter-revolution: ideas of M.K. Petrova as a source of thought. - Rostov-on-Don: RostIzdat, 2011.

Keywords: bureaucracy, anti-bureaucratic manifestations, scientific ethos.

Scientific and Technical Counter-Revolution: Transcript of Discussion

Summary: The journal "Political conceptology" publishes the transcript of the discussion of the book V.P. Makarenko's "The scientific and technical counter-revolution: M.K. Petrov's ideas as a source of thought", held February 10, 2012 in Rostov-on-Don.

Keywords: scientific and technical counter-revolution, study of Petrov's work, school of thought.

Kravtsov N.A. The Confucian Concept of Interaction between Art and Government

Summary: The article considers the role of music and ritual as a means of control and harmonization of political life in the teachings of ancient China.

Keywords: music, ritual, harmony, politics.